ASK TV GUIDE

Q I heard that George Wendt (Cheers) was doing a new sitcom, but I didn't see it on any of the fall schedules. What happened? —S.D., Miami

A Wendt shot a pilot for NBC titled "Under the Hood." It was turned down, but "Norm" needn't cry in his beer—CBS has purchased the show and ordered 13 episodes as a midseason series.

Q Is it true that Gene Roddenberry, the creator of Star Trek, is the only human ever to be "buried" in space? —A.Y., Hutchinson, Kan.

A Roddenberry's cremated remains were quietly taken aboard a space-shuttle flight as a tribute to his vision of the future. The ashes weren't "scattered," though—they were returned to Earth.

Q I've seen Sam Waterston with a perfect Southern accent in I'll Fly Away, and then without it in other shows. Where's he from? —B.V., Gillette, Wyo.

A Waterston, 53, is about as Yankee as you can get. He was born in Cambridge, Mass., into a family that came over on the Mayflower. But he's great at regional dialects; he was praised for his Midwestern Appalachian accent in his Broadway success "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Come fall he'll be back on television in "Law & Order."

Danza: On the road to recovery.*

Heaven Can Wait

"I'm a work in progress," says Tony Danza, the former Who's the Boss? and Taxi star who's still recovering from a serious skiing accident in December. "Therapy has become a big part of my life. I broke my back, dislocated my spine. I saw X-rays of three other guys with the same injury and they're paraplegics. I lost function for a while, which was really scary, and I'm waiting for a bone fusion to heal. I've got five screws and three pins in me—I'm setting off alarms in airports all over the country—but I'm walking now and my doctors are saying it's a miracle." Danza says "human error" was the cause of his accident. "I woke up in a funk that day. I had lost my mother in June. It was the first Christmas without her and she was on my mind. I wasn't really into skiing, actually, which is a bad thing when you're on skis." Shortly after starting down a hill, Danza fell, and before he could stop himself, "I let my mind wander again and in that split second, something happened that I don't remember. I woke up on a respirator." Although all acting projects are on hold for the time being, Danza stars in a remake of the 1951 classic "Angels in the Outfield," which was filmed before his accident and opens July 13. For now, Danza is happy just to be alive. "Rocky Graziano used to say, 'Somebody up there likes me.' Well, somebody up there loves me, because I've really had a charmed life."

SOUND BITE

"The producers have talked about having Kathie Lee in the kitchen doing leg lifts while peeling potatoes."

—Spokesperson for the "Kathie Lee Gifford Workout" tape, which will feature exercises that can be done while working around the house

Dad Again

Home Again host Bob Vila figures he was named Father of the Year by The Father's Day Council for a pretty good reason. "I think there's a connection between being a homebuilder, a homemaker, and a homebody," he says. "I've been working on building a family since 1975." After his now 17-year-old son, Christopher, was born, Vila and his wife, Diana, were told that they would be "unable to have any further pregnancies." So they adopted 22-month-old Monica (now 15) from Colombia. But they got a big surprise six years later when Diana went to the doctor and he sent her home with a pamphlet. "It said, 'So you're 40 and you're pregnant,'" Vila recalls. Their third child, Susannah, is now 9.

JANET SMOLLETT

Family Affair

"The Jacksons for the '90s"—that's what the Smolletts are being called in some corners. The six Smollett kids (pictured, from left: Jazz, JoJo, Jake, Jurnee, and Jussie, minus 9-month-old Jacqui) are stars of the ABC fall sitcom On Our Own. "We get compared to a lot of families—the Jacksons, the Winans, the Wayans," says JoJo, 16, who credits Mom with turning the kids on to show biz. "She taught us how to act by having us watch tapes of old movies. She'd stop on a certain scene and say, 'See how he did that?'" The lessons paid off when the Smolletts showed up for a meeting at ABC last year and staged an impromptu concert. "We went to a conference room and put on a show," says JoJo. "Apparently, they liked us." Given On Our Own's slot opposite 60 Minutes, a lot of other people will have to like them as well. The kids aren't fazed. "Our motto is, 'There's no one we're afraid of,'" says JoJo, "not even Mike Wallace."

Belafonte: Not rich or famous?*

RICHARD REINSDORF

Alternative Lifestyles

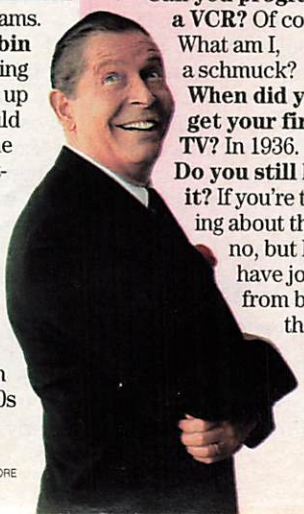
Say goodbye to champagne wishes and caviar dreams. In keeping with the politically correct '90s, Robin Leach's Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous is toning down the glitz, getting a new name, and picking up a caring co-host. "When I was asked, 'What would it take for you to do the show?' I said, 'Change the title,'" says Shari Belafonte, who will share hosting duties with Leach on the new Lifestyles with Robin Leach and Shari Belafonte beginning in September. "I have a problem being perceived as 'rich and famous,'" says Belafonte. "I'm certainly not rich, and I'm not really that famous." She explains that the new Lifestyles will focus more on celebrities' charities and causes than on their mansions and yachts. "Things that mean something," Belafonte explains. "We're not into '80s opulence anymore. Being conservative is cool."

What I Watch

Milton Berle
Mr. Television

What do you watch? The reverse of what people might think—sports, Larry King, Charlie Rose, Meet the Press, and 60 Minutes. What about prime-time series? Not too many, but if I do, it's usually a drama like Matlock or NYPD Blue. Maybe I'm too show-wise, but I always know where sitcoms are going after the first scene. You have to understand, I started in TV in 1929. I was in vaudeville in Chicago, and TV was an experimental thing. When I was asked to appear on TV, I said, "What's that?" I still have it on tape. I stood cold in front of the cameras and whoever had a set in Chicago could see it, which was about 100 families. Do you own many other videos? Yes, a copy of every show I ever did on TV. Can you program a VCR? Of course! What am I, a schmuck? When did you get your first TV? In 1936. Do you still have it? If you're talking about the TV, no, but I still have jokes from back then.



KEN WHITMORE

JEERS

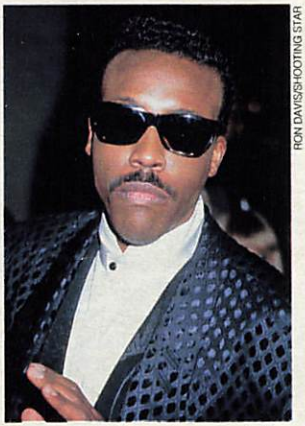
To recent Cheers recipient Arsenio Hall, whom we praised prematurely for deciding to end his talk show with grace and goodwill. Instead, in his final shows, he lashed out at the producers, telling them on-air they could "kiss my black ___" and ranting about how racism played a part in the cancellation. Too bad. Hall had a successful, groundbreaking five-year run in which racism presumably did not play a part—and had it within his grasp to depart with applause all around. Instead, he joined the victim brigade and left us with a whine, not a woof-woof-woof.

CHEERS

To ESPN, for elevating spelling to championship level. By televising the 67th annual Scripps Howard National Spelling Bee, complete with a host from its SportsCenter, ESPN sent an important message: In the quest for excellence, academics are as worthy as athletics—and as fun to watch, too. We can hardly wait for the first four-year spelling scholarship to 'Bama.

CHEERS

To Viewers for Quality Television, the grassroots lobby, for quickly organizing a write-in to save South Central, Fox's terrific inner-city sitcom recently canceled after a brief run for low ratings. Most television critics, including our own Couch Critic, applauded South Central, and if it hadn't been too late for our "Save Our Shows" issue, we'd have tried to give it a save as well as a rave. Add your voice to VQT's and write to Fox.



RON DAVIS/SHOOTING STAR

JEERS

To the syndicated show The Conspiracy Tapes, whose stated purpose is to "explore theories" about celebrated crimes. From what we've seen, the real purpose seems to be to weave loopy conspiracy plots around every imaginable death or disaster and try to make 'em seem plausible. We love speculative stuff—The X-Files, for instance—when it's clearly labeled as fiction, but not half-baked hokum that tries to pass itself off as documentary journalism. For instance: poor, talented, self-destructive Jimi Hendrix a plot victim? Puh-leeze!

CHEERS

To new public-service announcements that de-glamorize gun violence for young viewers. Developed by HBO and Warner Music Group and starring such hip performers as John Leguizamo, Onyx, Queen Latifah, and Chuck D, the spots will run on MTV, BET, and other teen-favored channels. Rapper Sticky Fingaz of Onyx (a group that has been charged with glorifying violence) put it well: "If I'm a preacher, a little kid won't listen to me. But if I'm Sticky Fingaz, they'll listen. So I can grab their attention and say, 'Stop killing yourself.' "

CHEERS

To the returns this week of HBO's Dream On and The Larry Sanders Show. With rerun season upon us, the prospect of fresh episodes from cable's finest and funniest sitcoms is as delicious as ice cream on a hot summer day. Inside Sanders stuff: Yes, Larry returns to his show. And guests who'll play themselves include Elvis Costello, Sharon Stone, and, back for a repeat flirt, Mimi Rogers. Hey now! ■

THE COUCH CRITIC

By Jeff Jarvis

Dead at 21

MTV, Wednesdays, 10 P.M./ET

This is the age of paranoia.

Exhibit 1: The X-Files, the cult hit that believes "the truth is out there" but is hidden by some intergalactic conspiracy. It makes paranoia sexy and entertaining.

Exhibit 2: Dead at 21, a thriller about a government plot to mess with young minds. It turns paranoia into a badge of youth—and gives it a cool soundtrack.

MTV

Alive at 20: Ryan gives Noseworthy a hand.

Dead is a Max Headroom for MTV without the wowy graphics or wacky humor but with the same sense of irreverence, menace, and fun. Jack Noseworthy plays a guy named Ed who discovers on his 20th birthday that he's being hunted by a government agent because he is a "neurocybernaut" ("cyb" for short) with a chip in his head—a chip that has made him a genius but also will make him crazy, shorting out his brain by age 21. So he runs away with a pal (Lisa Dean Ryan) to find the doc who did this to him, the cure—and the truth that is out there.

Hard to swallow? Sure, I think so. But imagine you're a Generation Xer reading recent reports about children used in '50s radiation experiments. What's so far-fetched about implanting chips instead? Or imagine seeing the White House conspiracies recounted in the Haldeman diaries—at the same time you see a funeral lionizing the Conspirator in Chief. Who's to say the government is not conspiring still? Who's to say paranoia's nuts? Certainly pop culture is treating it as serious and big business, trying to keep the jittery spirit of the Cold War alive long after the fall of communism robbed us of a common bad guy. Books and movies try to fill that venal vacuum with drug dealers as their new enemy. But TV—in the exhibits presented here, plus every magazine, tabloid, and talk show—is turning within, looking for conspiracies in our government, even our families. TV has met the enemy and it is us.

I don't mean to read too much into what is really just a neat, exciting little series. But if Dead clicks, it will be because it is a true (and entertaining) barometer of its generation's angst. That's why it matters that this is a show about paranoia. It's also a show about how tough it is being smart today. It's about grunge as a way of life in an era of lowered expectations. It's about young love ("I want you to live, Ed. Is that so wrong?" asks his pal). It's about coming-of-age: "Maybe it is time to find out just what is inside my head," Ed says, taking that vow more literally than my peers did. And it's about just plain adventure: bad guys vs. good guys. That's what'll make this more than sociology. That's what'll make this a hip hit of summer. ■

TV's Top Dogs

The star's handlers were clearly worried. Their anxiety had been filtering through phone and fax lines for more than a week over a request for an important photo session—known in the business as a "cover try." They were interested, but would their star be on the cover? No guarantee. Would their client have to share the spotlight with other celebrities? Maybe. Publicists conferred with other handlers, including studio executives in charge of the star's next big project. Suddenly, negotiations stalled.

Elizabeth Taylor? Julia Roberts? The women of Melrose Place? No, that little trip through photo-shoot hell involved getting Lassie—Lassie!—to pose.

It epitomizes, however, the new pecking order among TV's top dogs, suddenly superbig, superhot. Superdogs. New power pooches—including Comet and Barkley from Full House, Eddie from Frasier, and Murray from Mad About You—are forcing Lassie (who does get her own PBS special in August) to make room as they paw their way into the ranks of Hollywood's power players.

How powerful? Well, their newfound clout is propelling the canine craze into daytime. Vinnie, a lovable one-eared mutt, has the run of ABC's new daytime talk show Mike & Maty. The dog often sits on Maty's lap during interviews. Another talk show is going even further by giving its bowwow top billing: On Pet Department, on the new fX channel, Jack the Dog is—hang onto your leash—the co-host. "The other host, Steve Walker, is human," explains the show's publicist.

With the growing clamor for family en-

They're a breed apart, with egos and agents to match. Now, Hollywood's hottest hounds have a star system all their own

BY DEBORAH STARR SEIBEL

Comet, Full House
Real Name: Comet
Breed: golden retriever Age: 7 1/2
Call him the De Niro of the Dog Elite. The Full House regular's thespian gifts are so wide-ranging that during his first season on the ABC sitcom, he played his own mother, then returned the next year as himself. "As an actor," says Cristie Miele, his trainer, "he has tremendous range." Like De Niro, the camera-mad golden will even undergo appearance-altering procedures for a part.

For the title role in the upcoming movie "Fluke"—in which Comet plays a street dog who is the re-incarnation of a murdered man—he had his own makeup person to darken his coat (with vegetable dye) and apply mousse to his fur to make it look more matted. "When we first found out that Comet had gotten a feature, we were all resentful," says Bob Saget, one of Full House's other stars. "But now I've decided to kiss up to him."

tertainment, TV's top dogs have also become top commodities for films. Lassie is coming out with a new movie—the ninth since the '43 classic "Lassie Come Home"—this summer. Barkley stole the show from Dana Carvey in spring's "Clean Slate"

PETER IOVINO/MGM

Eddie, Frasier
Real Name: Moose
Breed: Jack Russell terrier
Age: 4
You've heard this kind of Hollywood story before: troubled childhood, then adversity, finally stardom. "His family gave him up; he was crazy," says trainer Mathilde deCagny. That background may explain the defiant stare that's made Moose's Eddie such a star. How big? He's making a music video, and in 1995 (it had to happen)—Eddie calendars.

and will appear this summer opposite Charles Grodin in "It Runs in the Family." And Comet stars with Matthew Modine in "Fluke," an upcoming flick about a murder victim reincarnated as a dog.

As a result of this newfound popularity and impressive earning power, superdogs are in the position to ask for (and get) all the perks of the star system: contracts, agents, publicists, body doubles, videos, calendars, and enough adoration to make any dog's tail spin.

It's a Cinderella story for many of these dogs. Vinnie was rescued from the pound. Eddie was given up by his owners because he was too much to handle. Seeing a certain something—energy, intelligence, or an unusual personality—Hollywood animal trainers adopt these dogs, refine their skills, and take them to casting calls. If they make the cut and the show is a hit, the transformation from house dog to superdog is complete.

Two-hundred-fifty dollars a day is the standard superdog rate (roughly $31 an hour, if you're doing the math). And then there are the extras. When Lassie makes out-of-town appearances, for example,

This pooch is credited with defining TV's role in politics. Richard Nixon's heartfelt digression about his family dog during the historic "Checkers" speech turns public opinion in his favor and rescues his Vice Presidential bid.

Rin Tin Tin, The Adventures of Rin Tin Tin
Where many of his human colleagues failed, cavalry mascot Rinty made a successful transition from silent movies to TV talkies. His dog-and-pony show quickly follows Lassie's series to the small screen.

TV GUIDE ARCHIVES

Dreyfuss, Empty Nest
Real Name: Bear
Breed: Saint Bernard/golden retriever mix Age: 8
It may be just as hard for canine stars to age gracefully on-air as it is for their human co-workers. But Bear's seven years in the biz prove it can be done. Starting his NBC career at the tender age of 1 1/2 years, the network stalwart has never been known to throw his weight (105 lbs.) around. "He's always there with a lick on the face," says executive producer Regina Stewart Larsen. Despite his regular-guy image, Bear does have a Hollywood bloodline—after all, his dad was in Father Murphy.

Barkley, "I'm too big for TV now"
Real Name: Barkley
Breed: Jack Russell terrier Age: 5 1/2
There's only one dog in town with two starring roles, and it ain't Lassie, babe. After walk-ons in Full House and Burke's Law, this scene-stealer has made one of the fastest small-screen-to-big-screen leaps in Dog Star history. Heavy buzz on Barkster's upcoming "It Runs in the Family" follows the yips about his standout performance in spring's so-so "Clean Slate." He flies first class, stays at the Regency, but has a weakness for balloons, which he barks at till he's hoarse. Can a 12-step program be far behind?

1958
Huckleberry Hound, The Huckleberry Hound Show
This blue-toned mutt's show becomes the first animated series to win an Emmy: Best Children's Program in 1959. He was one of Hanna-Barbera's earliest characters.

1962
Astro, The Jetsons
TV's first dog in space uses a rocket-powered pack on his back when he plays fetch with his boy Elroy.

1964

Lowly Shoeshine Boy transforms himself into television's animated canine super-hero whenever there is trouble: "No need to fear, Underdog is here!"

Supper dish in tow, Snoopy makes his TV debut, along with the rest of the Peanuts gang, in the yuletide favorite "A Charlie Brown Christmas," featuring that now-famous twig of a tree.

Tiger, The Brady Bunch
Tiger ushers in the era of the canine wedding-crasher. In the first episode, the boys' shaggy pooch ruins Mike and Carol's wedding by chasing the girls' cat, Fluffy, through the reception, toppling guests, tables, and the cake.

she (he, really—all eight Lassies have been males) flies first class in a reserved seat. He also has his own traveling companion, a Jack Russell named Mel Gibson. At their hotel, Lassie often drinks bottled water and indulges in gourmet biscuits.

Barkley, the sometimes ferocious-looking Jack Russell terrier with a two-picture deal at MGM, also flies first class, has his own director's chair, and demands ground transport worthy of a visiting dignitary.

Eddie, another scrappy Jack Russell, who regularly unnerves—and upstages—Dr. Frasier Crane with his persistent stare, sports Holiday cologne for dogs and eats "high-quality cooked chicken, hot dogs, and stew beef," according to his trainer, Mathilde deCagny. How good is the chow? "I eat it myself when I get hungry," she says, looking guilty.

Murray, Mad About You
Real Name: Maui
Breed: collie mix Age: 6

"In our two seasons," jokes Mad About You executive producer Danny Jacobson, "Maui has grown as an actor, I'd say, 14 seasons." According to Betty Linn, Maui's trainer, his gift is an ability to just not care about anything going on around him. When Paul Reiser and Helen Hunt are yelling, Maui's job is to just lie on the couch. He does this better than Smiley, who played Murray in the pilot but was, frankly, a little too alert. "They wanted a dog who could melt into a chair," says Linn. Favorite snack: appropriately, an occasional ham bone.

1969
Scooby-Doo, Scooby-Doo
This cowardly Great Dane lays claim to the longest-running doggie toon in production. Maybe now "those meddling kids" will toss him a Scooby Snack.

1970
Waldo, Nanny and the Professor
Television's psychic sheepdog is blessed with the ability to "talk" with the family's clairvoyant nanny.

1982
Mugsy, Late Night with David Letterman
On Letterman's inaugural "Stupid Pet Tricks," Mugsy breaks the bank by sneezing and answering the phone.

1987
Buford, Hee Haw
The only TV dog fired due to his overwhelming stench. Though it is announced that mascot Buford was released from his contract for medical reasons, reports confirm he was actually given the boot because of cast members' complaints about his odor.

1993
Family Dog
CBS's eagerly awaited animated Steven Spielberg series turns out to be one of TV's most disappointing dogs, running for only six weeks and registering a year-end ranking of 122 out of 156 programs.

ley puts Murray and Eddie —and every other canine you've ever met—to shame. He's like a little old lady, full of dignity, never making noise or changing position until asked. The setup calls for the three dogs to ape the luxe life in a convertible roadster. "Can you put his hands on the steering wheel?" asks the photographer, who, like the rest of us, has quickly mistaken this animal for a human being. "He doesn't have hands," says his trainer, laughing. So she poses his paws and he stays there—forever. When Murray gets out of position, when Eddie prematurely jumps out of the car for more food... Barkley drives on.

"That dog is incredible," says the photographer, staring at Barkley. "Easier than most of the people I work with." ■

Buck, Married... with Children
Real Name: Buck
Breed: briard Age: 11
The private dressing room, personal publicist, and crystal food dish all attest to Buck's status, but his holistic vet's special herb diets and acupuncture are nods to his advancing age. He's not too old for cutting up, however. "He likes to play tug-of-war with my pants," says trainer Steven Ritt. That's going against type for such an aristocratic dog, actually an expensive purebred with European lineage. To obscure his high-born origins during the first season, Buck didn't get groomed on show day. But then neither does costar Ed O'Neill.

Star, a Yorkie the size of your fist, gazes down from the dizzying Mt. Poochie —a 5-foot A-frame—with a look that clearly says, uh-oh. But in true jock spirit, she summons hidden reserves and bounds down the ramp, over a water hazard, and on to the Doggie Decathlon finish line.

Welcome to the American Gladiators of animalia: The Family Channel's That's My Dog, in which canine contestants maneuver mazes, crawl through tunnels, knock over bowling pins, and even perform talent skits in nose-to-nose competition.

Animals can be unpredictable, but host Wil Shriner welcomes that. "We had a dog jump into the audience, and into a woman's lap. The director yelled 'Cut!' I said, 'Keep rolling! Let's let things happen.'"

Shriner developed this relaxed air as host of Prime Time Pets. "I grew up with animals," he continues. "We even had a gibbon ape. On Prime Time Pets I got bit a couple of times. I've always said that when my nose gets bitten off, I'll learn my lesson."

Shriner predicts the unpredictable as the show heads into season three. "I think there should be even more distractions in the maze," he says. "Chew toys, maybe. A toilet should be in there." —Rick Schindler

'POP' QUIZ

Remember the good old days when father knew best and everyone made room for Daddy? When Ward Cleaver and Ozzie Nelson went somewhere to work all day, Mom kept house, and Dad's wisdom and authority were never challenged? Today's TV is populated with pops who reflect changes in the American family: flawed fathers, foster fathers, singles, surrogates, seniors, stepdads, even absentees. To mark Father's Day in this era of the post-nuclear family, test your knowledge of current TV dads.

WORLD CUP Soccer COMES TO America

It's not quite ready for prime time, but soccer will get star treatment on TV this month

BY JANICE KAPLAN

Like the rest of America, TV is a bit bewildered by the World Cup. Sure, everyone knows it's the biggest sporting event on the planet and that some two billion viewers all over the world will be watching on their local stations. In places like Brazil, so many people cluster around their TV sets when the national team is playing that towns virtually close down.

But in America? "I suspect that, depending on how the U.S. team does, this is going to have a bigger impact than people think," hazards Jack O'Hara, executive producer for ABC Sports.

With ABC airing 11 games and ESPN showing the other 41, fans can pretty much watch soccer day and night from June 17 to July 17. (Spanish-language Univision will also air all the games.) Should anyone get the urge to watch Saudi Arabia take on Morocco in the wee hours of the morning, the game will be on.

WILLIAM R. SALLEZ/DUOMO

"I hope that people in this country will watch with an open mind," says Al Trautwig, one of ABC's soccer analysts. "We're going to cover it simply, we're going to talk about it simply, and it's 'Most goals wins.' It couldn't get easier than that."

Almost half the population of the world watched the 1990 World Cup games in Italy, and more nations are affiliated with FIFA, soccer's governing body, than with the United Nations. That the '94 World Cup is taking place at nine sites from Pasadena to Boston was a calculated decision by FIFA to seduce baseball/basketball/football-obsessed Americans who might otherwise ignore soccer's quadrennial party.

For the American announcers, broadcasting these games is like teaching in a one-room schoolhouse: Everyone watching has a different level of knowledge. "You don't want to alienate the experts who grew up with the game and know all the strategies and intricacies," says Rick Davis, a U.S. soccer star in the '80s and now a commentator for ABC and ESPN. "On the other hand, just as many people don't understand what's going on, and when the ball goes out of bounds, they want to know how it gets back in."

They'll learn. "When the crowd is hiss-

Opposing fans hate him because he is a master at fooling referees: He feigns injury, then gets up unhurt after the official has punished the alleged offender. Germany has sometimes been criticized for treating soccer like a military activity, but it won the Cup in '90. Only Brazil and Italy match its record of three World Cup titles.

ing or yelling at an offside decision, I'll explain why they're so upset," says veteran soccer commentator Seamus Malin. "If you react to the game as it unfolds, nobody feels like you're talking down to them."

Until now, soccer has not been considered a TV-friendly sport. Action in each 45-minute half is continuous, and, says O'Hara, "You can't cut away for a commercial, because the minute you do, someone is sure to score the only goal of the game." The solution here: commercials before, after, and at halftime, and a graphic that includes a time clock with a sponsor's logo.

That clock, however, is one thing that will make fans realize they're not in the Superdome anymore. Unlike football—where 10 minutes left in the game means "Have dinner ready in half an hour"—there are no time-outs in soccer. But the referee can arbitrarily add time to the end of the game if there's been a pause in the action for an injury—real or imagined.

"Can you imagine?" asks O'Hara. "Viewers are used to the NBA clock, which shows hundredths of a second. Here, it's up to the referee. He blows the whistle—and it's over. The only official clock is in his pocket. Ours will be unofficial."

The networks will have plenty of analysts in the booth, but no sideline reporters. That shouldn't be much of a problem, since with only two substitutions (plus a

Coming from nowhere to be the class act of South American soccer, Colombia is sure to be the strongest team in the four-nation first-round bracket that includes the U.S. At the old age of 32, Valderrama anchors a young squad hoping to change its country's image as a hotbed of drugs and violence. The team's goalie from the '90 World Cup has just been released from jail and won't be back, but his absence didn't keep Colombia from a 28-game unbeaten streak. Says midfield teammate Fredy Rincon, "When we play, we like to put on a show. Winning is a bonus."

If You Never Thought Of Your Child As The Military Type, Think Again.

Now is the perfect time to think about what the military has to offer.

Although the military is getting smaller, the Armed Forces still need to recruit almost 400,000 young men and women for Active and Reserve positions each year.

Education, training, and job experience are important parts of the plan to restructure today's Armed Forces. They are also exactly what tomorrow's employers will be seeking.

Today's military is one of the most sophisticated and technologically advanced organizations in the world.

As in the past, the opportunities and rewards for joining the military will continue.

So, if you know a smart, ambitious high school graduate who's determined to make the most of the future, maybe he or she is the military type after all.

England says, 'Try the sport of Popes and Kings!'

America and England may be an ocean apart, but there is much we share. Americans have given the world Baywatch, Wheel of Fortune, and Big Macs, and the English have sent back Mick Jagger, Oxford marmalade, and the simple game of soccer. With the U.S. hosting the World Cup, the tournament will no doubt have flair and pizzazz. But there are rumblings of disquiet around the globe about entrusting the world's soccer festival to a nation that is lukewarm about the sport.

For some reason, Americans have been distinctly aloof to the seductions of soccer, and seem to have as much use for the World Cup as the Venus de Milo has for a pair of boxing gloves. A columnist in USA Today advised Americans to ignore the World Cup: "Hating soccer is more American than Mom's apple pie, driving a pickup, or spending Saturday afternoons channel surfing....As someone who knows what real sports are, you are under no obligation to play footsie with the rest of the world."

But it would be a pity if American armchair sportsmen were the odd ones out, missing the soccer feast in their own backyard. Satellite signals will carry the soccer action from America to the farthest ends of the Earth this summer—to communal televisions in African jungle clearings in Cameroon; to the Royal Palace of King Juan Carlos in Spain; to Saudi Arabian souks; to the papal apartments in The Vatican (Pope John Paul II, a goalie in his youth, is a big soccer fan); and to the teeming shanty favelas of Brazil.

Unfortunately, it's not yet in the national psyche to admire sportsmen who kick a ball with their feet. Even placekickers in the NFL are only allowed onto the field briefly. (Why that sport is called football is baffling to the rest of the world.) Americans have always favored sports where hand–eye coordination is paramount—whether it's a touchdown pass from Troy Aikman or a thunderdunk by Charles Barkley.

Soccer is a very basic game. The object is to get possession of the ball, pass it up the field, using feet or head, and put it into your opponent's net. As the eccentric manager Brian Clough once said: "God gave us grass for various reasons: for cows to eat and give us milk—and for soccer to be played on." As in any sport, there's no guarantee that every match will be exciting. The Russia teams can be as boring as a diet of borscht. Sometimes they can make 90 minutes of football seem like an entire Five-Year Plan. But with Brazil, Nigeria, Argentina, and the Indomitable Lions of Cameroon in the tournament, the unpredictable and magical will happen more often than not.

For the best soccer players in the world, the big occasion will sharpen their reflexes and stimulate their skills. You'll kick yourself if you miss one kick of the action. And just think of the snob value. No other sport allows you to boast: "Last night I watched the same game as the Pope and the King of Spain." —Joe Steeples, "London Sunday Mirror" goalie substitution) allowed, there wouldn't be anyone for them to talk to, anyway. An injury after the substitutions means the team plays shorthanded. But fans shouldn't worry if a favorite player falls down and doesn't immediately get up. Several players have perfected the art of the theatrical dive—while they stay down, winded teammates catch their breath and sip water.

Soccer is the second-most popular kids' sport in this country (after basketball), but parents who know the game from watching their daughters and sons play on Saturday mornings will be startled by the ferocity on the field.

"What I think will surprise some people is how physical a game it is," Malin says. "I think there's a notion out there that it's a noncontact sport, kind of a namby-pamby sport played by soft Europeans. It's not."

With 22 players on a field, it's hard to get up-close-and-personal, but TV execs are hoping some heroes will emerge (for possibilities, see boxes). They're also hoping that multiethnic Americans will cheer for more than the home team. Says ABC programming v-p David Downs, "I wanted to do a campaign where you had Mario Cuomo say, 'Who am I going to root for in the World Cup? Why, the U.S.' And then he whips out an Italian flag."

America plays its first Cup match June 18 against Switzerland. No host nation, in the 64-year history of the World Cup, has ever failed to advance to the second round. Though the U.S. has at best a strong B-level squad, there are hopes for something akin to the 1980 U.S. hockey team's Miracle on Ice. Maybe a Miracle on Grass.

"For the sake of the future of the game in the U.S., it is vital that we reach the second phase," says U.S. star Roy Wegerle. "Like it or not, Americans only want winners. They aren't interested in second-best. It's part of the national psyche."

An old-time sportswriter once dismissed soccer as being "about as exciting as Tristan und Isolde." But this is one time sports can give everyone a bigger window on the world. "It will be a cultural event," notes Bob Ley, ESPN SportsCenter host. Nobody expects huge ratings, but TV is committed to the sport. "We're not going to pretend soccer is the NFL or NBA," says O'Hara. "We're going to do it their way, the way the game is played and covered." ■

Diego Maradona, Argentina

The soccer-playing phenom of the '80s, Maradona has been slowed by age and a drug habit (now reportedly cured). He's volatile: Earlier this year, he allegedly fired an air gun at journalists outside his home near Buenos Aires, injuring five, and followed that by allegedly hosing down a camera crew. On the field, he is sometimes ponderous, but his passing is pinpoint accurate. He is almost a deity in his homeland, and will certainly be starting or at least subbing for the strong Argentina team.

The World of SOCCER According to Dr. K

America's No. 1 fan handicaps the World Cup—diplomatically, of course

Dr. Henry Kissinger, former Secretary of State and longtime soccer fan, is honorary chairman of World Cup '94. In his office in Manhattan, he chatted about soccer, television, and politics.

TV GUIDE: Were you disappointed that ABC isn't broadcasting any of the World Cup games in prime time?

DR. HENRY KISSINGER: ABC wasn't given the option. The schedule was set so the games could be shown live in prime time in Europe. If we played them during prime time here, it would be three o'clock in the morning in Europe.

TVG: So, unlike the Olympic Games, American TV didn't have any control over the scheduling of play?

HK: No. When American TV can control the schedule, it will mean that we've done our job in making soccer as popular here as it is elsewhere in the world.

TVG: What have been your World Cup experiences in soccer-crazed countries?

HK: I was at the final in Buenos Aires when Argentina was leading 1-0. Holland tied it up and in the last minute had a shot bounce off the goalpost. If that one had gone in, there could have been a revolution. But Argentina won in overtime, and there was such celebrating that I couldn't get out of the stadium. A helicopter flew me out, or I think I'd still be there. It was interesting because they'd had a civil war, they'd been killing people, but at that moment they were all Argentinians, rejoicing together.

TVG: Any chance there will be rejoicing on the streets of America this month?

HK: The American team is not going to get into the finals, so it will be different. This should be the best American team we've had, but if they make it to the round of 16, it will be a spectacular success. Even with luck, there's no conceivable way they could get beyond the round of 8.

TVG: No conceivable way?

HK: Well, maybe I can beat [Pete] Sampras in tennis sometime, but it's highly

Can America win the World Cup? It's about as likely as Dr. Henry Kissinger beating Pete Sampras in a tennis match—not just once, but regularly over a stretch of four weeks improbable. And in World Cup, it's not just one game—you have to play a couple of times a week for four weeks.

TVG: Once we can't root for America, which team is the most colorful to watch on TV?

HK: Every town mourns when the Brazilians get eliminated—and the Brazilian fans leave. The Brazilians have fiestas in the streets. They don't start riots—they just want to dance and have a good time. They're very friendly; there are no hooligans among the Brazilians.

TVG: Are there any political implications we can draw from the rise of the African teams?

HK: From what I understand, the governments support soccer strongly, and it's one of the unifying elements in the African nation. The Africans, of course, are great athletes. They are very acrobatic. They play like the Brazilians did in the old days, which is to attack—and that's fun to watch. But the African teams I've seen have not been disciplined enough to play a strategic game toward the end of the match.

TVG: Can you describe some other connections between soccer and national politics?

HK: The Italian teams play absolutely strategic games. They play football the way Machiavelli conducted politics. They are beautiful to watch, but above all, they try to prevent scoring against themselves. The Germans won the World Cup in '90 and were in the final in '86 and '82. They have it all organized like it's the Schlieffen plan [of World War I military strategy]. Their preparation is meticulous. They train like crazy, but if they get thrown off their game, they get depressed and melancholy.

TVG: What about England, which didn't make it to the World Cup this year?

HK: England used to be the best team. I'm not saying that the decline of England's politics led to the decline of English soccer, but they didn't keep up with the times. The English style used to be the most advanced, just as its industry was the most advanced. The English game became a little old-fashioned, so the very modern teams would usually beat them.

TVG: If a soccer team reflects the national style, how would you describe the American team?

HK: There's no coherent American style because the good American players train with teams all over—in the Netherlands, England, Germany. But this is our best team ever, and we have made good preparations.

TVG: Some games can be tedious, low-scoring, and boring to watch. Will that turn Americans away?

HK: The game has gotten very defensive, but there have been some rule changes that should help a little.

TVG: Would high-scoring games make Americans like the sport?

HK: Soccer hasn't been given a fair test because we've never had a competitive U.S. team. Everywhere else, there are club teams that play regularly and build strong loyalties. I don't know if baseball would be popular here if you only showed an occasional game that didn't matter.

TVG: Will having the World Cup here be inspiring enough to Americans that there will be another attempt at forming a pro soccer league?

HK: We're going to try.

TVG: I've heard you'd like to own one of the teams.

HK: I'd like to—but I don't think I can afford it. ■

Hollywood's Coolest Sport

On the eve of the World Cup, TV stars are turning soccer-crazy

BY JAMES RYAN

Soccer may not have a professional league in this country, but it's the ultimate game for suburban kids whose parents worry that football is too dangerous. It's also a sport where you don't have to be a star: Anyone can run and kick. And if you are a star—the Hollywood kind—it's the perfect on-set pastime.

"I'm trying to show as many kids as possible why it's the biggest and greatest sport in the world," says Home Improvement's Zachery Ty Bryan, 12, who plays the game and has an official role as youth ambassador to World Cup '94.

Why kids who star in successful sitcoms should like soccer isn't immediately clear, but it seems they do. Jonathan Taylor Thomas, one of Bryan's brothers on the No. 1 Home Improvement, also plays. Twelve-year-old Michael Fishman (pictured below), known as D.J. on Roseanne, and 10-year-old J.P. Steuer of Grace Under Fire look for pickup games whenever they have a break on the set. (Both their ABC shows are typically ranked in the Top 5.) Steuer runs next door on the CBS–MTM lot to kick the ball around with acting pals from Nickelodeon's Roundhouse. Fishman entices members of the Roseanne crew to join on-set matches.

"I still try to be a normal kid even though I'm on a set most of the time. And soccer helps me to do that," says Fishman. So far he hasn't been successful in recruiting the show's adult stars. "But I think Roseanne could play if she wanted to. Anybody can. It just takes motivation," he says.

The kids—both boys and girls—take the game seriously. In a recent practice, Fishman was whomped in the face with a ball kicked by Natalia Cigliuti of Saved by the Bell: The New Class. "The fastest players are the girls and some of them are bigger than me," admits Fishman dolefully.

On a typical evening, Bryan rushes home from rehearsal to attend soccer practice, and he has a one-on-one session with his trainer Friday mornings, before Home Improvement tapes in the afternoon. He recently filmed an instructional video called "Let's Play Soccer" with several U.S. World Cup team members.

Bryan dreams of being a pro soccer player but doesn't think he'd have to give up acting. Of his dual career plans he says, "I kind of want to be like Bo Jackson."

Hollywood already has its share of former pros. Costas Mandylor, the deputy sheriff on CBS's Picket Fences, and Andrew Shue of Fox's Melrose Place both played soccer professionally—Mandylor in Europe and Shue in Zimbabwe. Both gave it up for their TV careers.

For other grown-up stars, including Michael Worth and Alison Armitage of Acapulco H.E.A.T., soccer is now challenging surfing and roller hockey for the title of Hollywood's hippest sport. Soccer clothes are chic (the designer brand to remember is Umbro), and a fast-moving game of soccer is more fun than a StairMaster.

The H.E.A.T. set, on the beaches of Puerto Vallarta, is a perfect soccer playground. "They love the sport in Mexico," says Worth. "You just pick up the ball and everybody comes running." He admits that Armitage's penchant for playing in a bikini top and shorts doesn't dampen enthusiasm: "For some reason, whatever team she's on ends up with all the good players."

Hong Kong-raised Armitage doesn't mind the attention, but she also likes a chance at the ball. "They tend not to pass it on to me," she pouts. "I used to play football, as we call it, with my brothers and cousins on visits to England. I was the biggest tomboy you ever saw. My mom would put me in these white tights, and I would come home with green knees."

Pasadena's Rose Bowl is one of the sites for this year's Cup. Eight matches, including the finals, will be played there. Since tickets are harder to come by than a table at Mortons, most celebs will be watching the action on TV. Mandylor did get seats, and his father is flying over from Australia to join him in the VIP section for the semifinals and finals. "That'll be me sitting next to [legendary Brazilian player] Pelé, screaming my head off," Mandylor laughs. "It's been my dream to attend the World Cup since I was about 10. When I found out it was being played in my backyard, I wasn't about to miss out."

Home Improvement's Bryan has high hopes for the World Cup. With 3.65 million spectators expected to attend the games, he insists that World Cup is "15 times bigger than the Super Bowl." And sounding like the youth ambassador that he is, he adds that "by the year 2010, or maybe earlier, soccer will be one of the most popular sports in America."

And Home Improvement, no doubt, will still be in reruns. ■

Lauer Po

Rising 'Today' star Matt Lauer will be even more visible in a new studio

BY MARK SCHOOFS

It was a typical day on Today, NBC's morning news show. Anchor Bryant Gumbel was winding up a segment on new and improved SATs, the dreaded college entrance exams, and it was time to switch over to the news desk, manned by Today's newest member, Matt Lauer. "So, Matt," Gumbel said, "what did you get on your SATs?"

"I don't remember," Lauer replied, grinning, "but I'm pretty sure it was the same as the guy sitting next to me."

The quip is vintage Lauer: spontaneous, funny, and slightly mischievous. "Matt's kind of the boy next door," says Today co-anchor Katie Couric, "the kind of fellow you'd like to bring home to Mom, but not syrupy. There's just enough bad boy in him to make him interesting."

And successful—so far. Lauer, 36, also co-anchors the local NBC morning news, Today in New York, which airs immediately before Today. In the year and a half since Lauer started on the local show, its ratings have soared some 50 percent. People magazine recently named the square-jawed newscaster one of the year's most beautiful people, and even the starched New York Times termed Lauer a "sex symbol." No wonder industry mavens have dubbed him heir apparent to Gumbel. Already, Lauer sits in for Gumbel whenever the 12-year Today anchor can't make it.

"Bryant will stay here as long as he wants to," insists Today executive producer Steve Friedman. "But boy, it's comforting to have Matt there, it really is."

Lauer himself, however, can't take too much comfort in his own success, promising though it is. The behind-the-scenes history of the Today show reads like a thriller, full of clashing ambitions and stunning reversals, and Today is still locked in a brutal, seesaw contest with ABC's Good Morning America for top ratings in the high-stakes A.M. slot.

In short, Lauer is dancing in a minefield. Even his good looks could turn out to be a booby trap. On one hand Lauer's handsome mug is clearly an asset, attracting a lot of viewers. Couric, who says she's known as a matchmaker, gets "so many letters from women asking me if I'll set them up with Matt." And Lauer isn't just a ladies' man—"guys find him someone they could sit around a locker room with," says Couric.

But on the other hand, that sex appeal could easily attract too much attention. Lauer has only the skimpiest journalistic credentials, exposing him to criticism that he was hired more for his looks than for his skills. "I think he has to be careful," says Couric, "because any time so much emphasis is placed on your appearance, it can have the same effect that it has on women. You have to make sure that the impression is balanced out by real professionalism, real ability, real substance. This isn't a soap opera, it's a news show."

Lauer admits he was nervous about the lack of "that big item on your résumé that jumps out in neon to say journalist with a capital J." But producer Friedman shrugs off such concerns. "Over the past year, Matt has earned a lot of credibility with the audience," he snaps, "and over the next year he'll earn a lot more."

Three years ago, Lauer was woefully underemployed, working just a day or two a week in a low-profile job for HBO. The only offers he and his agent were able to scrounge up were for infomercials and game shows—stuff Lauer describes as "cheesy."

Such rocky times were new for Lauer. His first job out of college was humble—a news producer in Huntington, W. Va.—but his star rose swiftly. For years he never had to hunt for a new job because, he says, "jobs always came to me." He hosted P.M. Magazine in three different cities, and even co-hosted a live show in the Big Apple, 9 Broadcast Plaza.

Then his career started sputtering. Five shows in a row were nixed after "embarrassingly short" runs. He was actually considering taking a job trimming trees one morning when his phone rang. It was NBC in New York, asking him to co-anchor the morning news.

That quickly led to his other co-anchor slot on the Live at Five evening news, and then to his current post on Today. Working three different shows makes for a savage schedule. Lauer rises at 4 A.M. and an hour later arrives at the NBC studios in Rockefeller Center (walking into the world-famous landmark still gives him a thrill). As soon as the local news winds up, Lauer dashes to the Today stu-

Today's Throwback Makeover

On June 20, Today moves to a new studio—a gleaming $15-million facility fronted by 100 linear feet of glass. "The competition can copy our format but they can't copy our view," says executive producer Steve Friedman as he shows off the new space—which overlooks Rockefeller Plaza, with its gardens, ice rink and, at year's end, the world-famous Christmas tree.

It's the interactive '90s: Three "information kiosks" outside on the street will enable passers-by to communicate with the show's hosts and guests by microphone or keyboard. But it's also the anything-can-happen '90s, so, should anything "tasteless" occur in full view, opaque panels and a heavy curtain can descend in 15 seconds. Viewers will also notice sleek new furniture and a tile floor emblazoned with a map of the world. Yet it's all a reinvention of the glass-walled, street-level studio introduced by NBC in 1952 (see photo).

"People want to be involved and we will let them," says Friedman, "whether it's holding up a sign or asking Vice President Gore or Jerry Seinfeld a question. We're in the center of a real place, just like David Letterman is. It's a little dangerous, more exciting. It's a neck-and-neck race between Today and Good Morning America." Friedman, whose show has mostly been second to ABC's since 1990, adds, "I expect this will put our neck ahead of theirs."

dio, which used to be three flights down but now is six flights down and across the street (the step aerobics class he takes with Gumbel helps him make it without huffing). At 11, Lauer goes to his Manhattan home for a much-needed nap. He returns to the office at 3 to prepare for Live at Five, and finally goes home for good at 6. Soon afterward, he's asleep. "Nine-thirty is a late night for me," he says.

Tough schedule? It gets worse. On many weekends, Lauer flies halfway across the country to Waterloo, Iowa, to see Kristen Gesswein, the woman he's been dating for four years. Worse still: Gesswein, a reporter at an NBC affiliate station, has to work weekends—"so when I'm out there," says Lauer, "I only get to see her for a few hours in the morning." He sighs, "If we can get through this, we can get through anything."

You get the impression they'll pull through. Lauer is a man who likes simple pleasures—golfing, barbecuing, frolicking with his 3-year-old niece—and says he treasures family over career. "If you had to put your life on a pie graph, you gotta hope that your career would be the smaller section," he says.

That low-key attitude may be Lauer's most important edge in his high-flying career. He never takes things too seriously. Couric remembers a classic case, when Lauer was supposed to fill in for Gumbel the next day. To tease him, Couric zipped off an e-mail message, ribbing Lauer for not using his precious afternoon nap time to study for the show. Lauer sent a message back, insisting he had been studying. "I'm trying this new technique," he deadpanned, "where I just put the research over my head as I sleep and hope that osmosis takes place."

The show, of course, went off without a hitch. ■

PHYLLIS GEORGE

Kentucky's Comeback Queen

"Yes, she's back, the dimples are back, the smile is back, the former Miss America is back on television," says Phyllis George. Her tone is playful but defiant, obviously meant to preempt any snide comments that might accompany her return to TV this week—as the host of several interview specials on TNN: The Nashville Network—after an inglorious exit nine years ago.

Until then, George had been on a roll with an impressive and sometimes unprecedented string of successes. After being crowned Miss America 1971, she became the first full-time female reporter—and then co-host—of The NFL Today for CBS Sports. Then came a successful political life as First Lady of Kentucky, the wife of then-governor John Y. Brown, with whom she had two children—son Lincoln and daughter Pamela.

In 1985, however, when George was chosen to replace Diane Sawyer as co-anchor of CBS Morning News, things took a downturn. According to George, CBS executives assured her they wanted the show to be less news, more entertainment. But the format stayed the same, and she was thrust into the daily grind of hard-news interviews, a move for which she was ill-prepared.

One morning, George interviewed an accused rapist and his alleged victim, who were making the morning-news and talk-show rounds recanting their story and explaining how the whole sorry mess occurred. At the end of her interview, George suggested to the man that he give the woman a hug. America gasped. So did CBS News.

"It was one of those tired, spontaneous moments that sometimes just happen," says George. "The interview was unscheduled and I was unprepared. As soon as the words were out, I thought, Oops, if I could just stuff that back in my mouth. But I couldn't. I think if Barbara Walters or a more seasoned reporter had said what I said, well, it would have been going out on a limb, but acceptable."

Nine years after a controversial exit, Phyllis George returns to TV on her own terms

But it was unacceptable for Phyllis George. She left CBS News shortly afterward and went back to Kentucky. So why return now? "This time," she says, "I've found the right formula—cable. It fits my lifestyle. It's not high-pressure. I can fly to a location for a day or two and then come home and be with my children."

In her first special, featuring country star Naomi Judd and father-and-son auto racers Richard and Kyle Petty, George is friendly, not tough. "I want to catch people not off guard, but with their guard down," she says. "That's a very important difference." But the stunner is that George also interviews President Bill Clinton.

"My husband and Bill were freshman governors together," she explains. "We've known the Clintons for years—Hillary and I were pregnant with Chelsea and Lincoln at the same time." When George's producer discovered that Clinton was going to be at the Charlotte Motor Speedway during the talk with the Pettys, George called the White House and requested an interview with the President. "Within an hour, we had him. It was supposed to last 15 minutes, but it lasted 45. I hope that America will see our President in ways they haven't before. We talked about a lot of personal stuff—life in the White House, the pressures of the Presidency, parenting a teenager. I can't believe I'm the parent of a teenager."

There have been rumors that George's marriage is shaky, and she and Brown are living apart as he works on a business venture in Florida. But she says it's for the children. "We moved down there with him, but I feel so strongly that kids need place, you know? Roots. So we moved back and John commutes. We're not happy about it, but what can you do?"

George makes no excuses and isn't worried about being back in television. "I've never felt that what happened at CBS News was a failure. It was a learning experience. At first it hurt me, but I'm not a quitter. If saying, 'Why don't you give her a hug?' is the worst thing I'm known for, hey, I can live with it." —Hilary Cosell

The Ghost with the most

"This is not really a talk show," says Michael Lazzo, executive producer of the Cartoon Network's Space Ghost: Coast to Coast. "Well, it is, but it's a talk show from outer space." Lazzo's confusion is understandable. To put it mildly, Space Ghost (Fridays at 11 P.M./ET) is the damnedest thing to hit television since SCTV's Count Floyd had "the kid from 'Deliverance'" as a guest on his Christmas special.

The concept of the show is, um, simple.

CARTOON NETWORK

Start the insanity: Space Ghost interviews Susan Powter.

Space Ghost, that schlocky animated superhero from the '60s, sits behind an interviewer's desk and chats with live-action guests who appear on a video monitor. His technique is unorthodox, to say the least, often beginning by asking guests such as Dr. Joyce Brothers or former Partridge Family star Danny Bonaduce, "What's your true form? Do you have a secret identity?" Opening-show guest Susan Powter—the buzz-cut blonde of "Stop the Insanity" infomercial fame—responded that she was, in fact, a man.

Stop the insanity, indeed. Space Ghost is replete with cosmic in-jokes and bizarre interludes. In one episode, the action was repeatedly interrupted by a pleasant female voice translating bits of dialogue into Spanish. "That was the work of a young woman on our writing staff for whom Spanish class was a childhood trauma," notes Lazzo drolly. "Those segments were part of her therapy."

More wackiness is contributed by Space Ghost's sidekicks, who, oddly enough, are incarnated by his old enemies. Leading the house band is the locust Zorack, and at the video controls is the helmeted Moltar. They're assisting Space Ghost against their will, of course, and Lazzo promises that on future episodes they'll be wreaking some serious havoc.

As for the careening guitar rock that emanates from Zorack's band, the Original Way Outs, that's actually the work of underground guitar legend Sonny Sharrock. "So much music associated with sci-fi is done with keyboards and electronics, which is kind of cliché," says Lazzo. "I've been a big fan of Sonny's for years—he can be dissonant and melodic at the same time, and very out there—and when we approached him to do the show, he was into it." The Cartoon Network has even put out a six-song CD sampler of Sharrock's music for the show, and the end credits exhort viewers to "Support the genius of Sonny Sharrock," although, sadly, Sharrock passed away on May 26 at age 53.

While some celebs are understandably wary of undergoing the Space Ghost treatment, the show has developed such a hip cachet that a good number of quirky stars have asked to appear. "We just scheduled David Byrne, who called us," reports Lazzo proudly. "We've also been approached by [alternative rock band] Sonic Youth, which we hope will happen soon." And while Space Ghost has thus far used his cheesy reverb voice on only one or two occasions, Lazzo promises it will happen again soon. I, for one, can't wait. ■

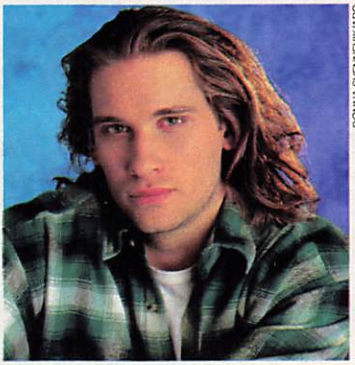
Rapists: unlikely heartthrobs

Let's call a spade a spade: There is a very large contingent of American female soap viewers who find something very attractive about rapists.

Over the last several years, such sexual violators as General Hospital's Luke Spencer, Another World's Jake McKinnon, and Days of Our Lives' Bill Horton, Lawrence Alamain, and Jack Deveraux were each redeemed at the feverish behest of fans and allowed to triumph as heartthrobs. It's really quite a phenomenon. And the most interesting—and extreme—case study is occurring before our eyes on One Life to Live, where Todd Manning—rapist, sadist, psychopath, killer—now bears a new badge: dreamboat. As played by the dynamic Roger Howarth (who won a much-deserved Emmy last month), Todd recently saved the lives of three Llanview citizens—two young kids and Marty Saybrooke, the woman he violated last summer during a drunken fraternity gang rape.

"This guy started out as Rapist Number One and has gone on to huge piles of fan mail—for months we've had young women standing outside the studio screaming 'Todd! Todd!' whenever Roger walked out of the building," reports One Life to Live head writer Michael Malone, who along with his writing team won a '94 Emmy for the powerfully crafted rape saga. "The day Todd rescued Marty, the phones started to ring—fans were calling to say he should be pardoned."



DONNA SVENNEVIK/ABC

Roger Howarth of "One Life to Live."

The religious symbolism cannot be dismissed. Not only did Todd's bearded, bloody, long-haired visage remind us of Jeffrey Hunter's portrayal of the crucified Christ in "King of Kings," but the character's religious-fanatic girlfriend, Rebecca, is played by Reiko Aylesworth, a fleshy, exotic, kinky-haired actress who looks like every Mary Magdalene Hollywood ever turned out.

What's more, Todd—who has survived scissor-stabbing, subzero waters, lethal drug doses, and several bullets—has an infinite ability to resurrect himself. But Malone, who is also an acclaimed novelist, places the root of Todd's appeal elsewhere.

"The bond between the woman and the violator is a great, historical tradition in fiction and in films," he says. "Rudolph Valentino, Humphrey Bogart, Kirk Douglas, and Clark Gable all began as totally irredeemable villains, but the audience perceived them as something different. It is a testament to the remarkable ability of [Howarth] that he is able to present the pain behind the villainy and rage." Still, Malone concedes "there is something troublesome in the response [of female viewers]. You certainly don't want to say that these women want to be raped or that they are drawn to violence, because that's not true. But they are responding to the intensity of passion and an actor who lets you inside the torment. Some [women] believe they can be swept up in that passion and still turn it good. They think, 'With me, he'd be different.'" ■

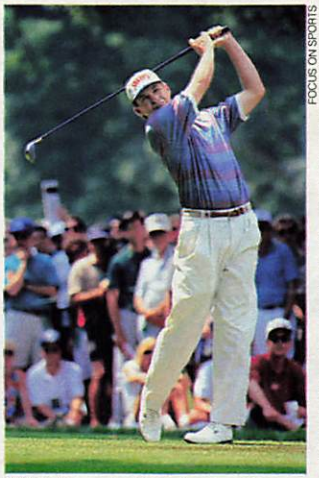
U.S. Open course is a toughie...for ABC

Part of golf's charm on TV is watching pros compete on the world's most challenging courses. This weekend's U.S. Open finale from the Oakmont Country Club outside Pittsburgh (ABC, Saturday, June 18, 1:30 P.M./ET; Sunday, June 19, 1:30 P.M.) delivers that in spades. What's more, Oakmont is as much of a test for ABC's production team as it is for defending champion Lee Janzen and the other PGA stars.

ABC producer Terry Jastrow plans to use 30 cameras, some shuttling about, to cover 80 positions. He points out that the greens are "exceedingly fast" with "undulation leading into hazards." What's more: "The greens fall away from front to back, forcing the players to deal with added pressure." Getting those nuances across on the small screen is no small feat.



FOCUS ON SPORTS

"You need a three-dimensional look and TV is a two-dimensional medium," says director Jim Jennett. "Golf is traditionally covered from high camera angles that flatten the greens. That's especially so on a course lined with huge trees, which cut down sight lines. So we use pretaped helicopter shots and three 100-foot cranes."

Given the popularity of golf software for computers and game machines, one wonders if ABC could employ more high-tech graphics to illustrate course characteristics. Jennett says no. "We've been looking at computer modeling of greens, but haven't yet found the perfect application for our telecasts—and we don't want to become too technical."

Jennett says his crew will go for lower camera angles on some of the greens, and Steve Melnyk will trace out Oakmont's irregular breaks on the Telestrator. "We'll also insert the player's face in the corner of the screen, watching and reacting as his ball rolls."

One factor that should be smooth and steady during the telecast is host Brent Musburger, coming into his own handling golf at ABC after a rough start two years ago. Musburger seems genuinely to enjoy the game now. He no longer makes birdie putts sound like goal-line stands, and he's been doing his homework. Walking through Oakmont with Janzen a few weeks back, Musburger was struck by winter's effect on the course: "Par is a real good score here."

Musburger calls Greg Norman the "odds-on favorite," even though he dropped the Memorial to Tom Lehman. Musburger notes that foreign pros, including Nick Faldo, are playing below their best these days. And he says that while John Daly has come back from his battle with the bottle, "he has a game that's not suited for the Open."

What sort of Open drama will unfold on this course? Jastrow, who's been senior producer since 1988, wouldn't mind a repeat of the '92 Open from Pebble Beach, when PGA veteran Tom Kite (finally) won. "I grew up playing golf with Tom in Texas," says Jastrow.

Aha...another subtlety to look for: ABC shooting Kite from more favorable camera angles than the other golfers. ■

Suspense, intrigue in 'The Pelican Brief'

It's a well-made legal thriller, but The Pelican Brief isn't one of the great ones. So let's attribute its robust box office ($100 million) to the runaway popularity of author John Grisham—and The Julia Factor. "The Pelican Brief" is Julia Roberts' first big film in a couple of years, and it's good to have her back. She's in fine fettle as Darby Shaw, a bright law student who finds herself on the run after she writes a brief containing her theory about the murders of two Supreme Court justices. Denzel Washington is just right as reporter Gray Grantham. "Pelican" isn't memorable but it's slick and diverting, with stirring photography and just enough suspenseful action and intrigue to keep you hooked. (PG-13 2:21 Warner CC)

Ace Ventura: Pet Detective. Jim Carrey, who played zany characters on television's In Living Color, outzanies himself here with slapstick antics, a rubbery mug, double-jointed contortions, and a fairly silly script that has him searching for the Miami Dolphins' missing mascot. Carrey's timing for jumping into features was impeccable: Fox's In Living Color was recently canceled. And what a jump—a lot of critics groaned at this but kids loved it, and rewarded "Ace" with a $72-million take at the box office. Carrey couldn't be hotter; he's been compared to Robin Williams and called the next Jerry Lewis. Needless to say, an "Ace Ventura" sequel is already in the works. (PG-13 1:27 Warner $24.96 CC) ■

Battle Is Joined Over TV's 'Failure' to Do Educational Kidvid

Activists for children's TV are girding up for battle with broadcasters, catching Congress and the White House smack in the middle. The Campaign for Kids' TV—comprised of 15 prestigious groups—charges that TV stations and networks are sloughing off their responsibilities under the Children's Television Act of 1990, which directs all commercial stations to air some educational/informational kids' shows.

CBS

Paul Zaloom of CBS's "Beakman's World."

"There's been a lot of commotion and not much motion," says the National PTA's Arnold Fege. "We are becoming quite impatient with the lack of response from both the White House and the FCC."

Among the activists' no-nonsense demands, according to the Campaign's Jeffrey Chester, is a full hour of educational programs a day, aired at reasonable times or in time slots not easily preempted. (CBS's Beakman's World, for example, has been shoved aside regularly for sports.) Also sought: better definitions of "educational" and "informational."

On June 28, broadcasters and consumer activists will lock horns in a day-long conference before the FCC. Commission staffer Larry Miller says, "We're holding these hearings to make broadcasters realize that the FCC takes the Children's TV Act very seriously." ABC spokesperson Julie Hoover insists that mandating an hour a day is "overly rigid. The burden would be great for stations and extraordinarily great for networks."

Says kidvid activist Peggy Charren (who will testify at the hearing): "The Act is not working at all now. If the FCC proves that they're really serious about this, then the law will start to work." National Association of Broadcasters senior v-p Chuck Sherman maintains: "The Act works. Its purpose has been served. Additional hours are not required at this time."

Howard's Back and E!'s Got Him

Will Howard Stern once again trigger the wrath of the FCC if his newly minted daily E! Entertainment Television show—a video distillation of his controversial radio program—purveys indecent material? Stern may, but the watchdog agency has no jurisdiction over basic cable, and so is largely powerless to penalize E! Stern, whose previous E! series was among the web's highest-rated programs, has more than $1.7 million in FCC fines outstanding against him. But, says E! senior v-p Fran Shea, "I don't anticipate any problems about content." However, many will be keeping a watchful eye on Stern's return to TV. "Anybody who sponsors his program should be tarred and feathered," declares Morality in Media president Robert Peters. —Neil Hickey

Woodstock '94: PPV's Biggest Event?

No, it won't be Son of Woodstock, say its backers. "This time, it's not about peace, love, and tie-dye," insists James English, senior v-p of Viewer's Choice, one of two pay-per-view companies (the other: Request Television) that will air the Aug. 13-14 rock extravaganza from Saugerties, N.Y., marking the 25th anniversary of the Woodstock festival. "It's really for the younger people, not for '69 leftovers," says English. Among the bands: Aerosmith, Alice in Chains, Spin Doctors, Nine Inch Nails, Metallica, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Cypress Hill, and The Allman Brothers Band, along with solo acts Johnny Cash, Bob Dylan, and Melissa Etheridge. There'll be a few returnees from '69, among them Santana, The Band, and Crosby, Stills & Nash. (A second, far more modest concert—not on the PPV schedule—will be held 50 miles away in Bethel, N.Y., on the site of the '69 gathering, with Richie Havens and others.)

PPV audiences will have to shell out $34.95 for one day or $49.95 for both days. For that, they'll get almost 48 hours of uninterrupted music—the most ambitious PPV offering since NBC's hapless Olympics TripleCast. If the promoters' goal of at least a 2 percent buy rate (out of 23 million homes equipped for PPV) is achieved, Woodstock '94 would become the all-time top PPV event, eclipsing Howard Stern's New Year's Eve special and 1990's New Kids on the Block concert. "It's a watershed moment for PPV," says Bruce Karpas, president of Reiss Media Enterprises. "Most PPV concerts have not been wildly successful. This is the kind of event people have been demanding from pay-per-view." —N.H.

The Scramble to Save 'Tales' Sequel

A sequel to Armistead Maupin's Tales of the City may yet make it to TV despite its controversial rejection by PBS. The most likely outlet? Cable's Showtime, although so far the funding is foreign. Britain's Channel 4 has pledged $4 million, following Tales' huge success there (it recently won that nation's most prestigious TV award), and a Canadian production company is providing $1 million. "We have five of the $8 million necessary for a six-hour program," says Alan Poul, the producer for Propaganda Films. Says Maupin: "We're determined to keep it alive." A dissident group of PBS stations, including San Francisco's KQED and Boston's WGBH, is still laboring to return the highly rated show to public television. —I.R

TV CLIPS

David Caruso will star with Mad About You's Helen Hunt in a remake of the film "Kiss of Death...Jane Fonda is exec producing and Tom Selleck stars in "Broken Trust," a TNT movie about political corruption...Kevin Kline will play Don Quixote in a TV-movie version of "Man of La Mancha" for CBS...ABC is developing "The Magic Johnson Story" into a miniseries—Penelope Patsuris

Candid comments on concealed cameras

Hats off to reporters who use hidden cameras to expose revolting rip-offs ["Freeze! You're on Hidden Camera," May 28]. I much prefer to see exposés of bogus merchandise operations than the tales of sick and depraved individuals that are typically served up on daytime talk shows.

Pete Wagner
Colonia, N.J.

What a hoot! Do journalists honestly believe use of a camera, hidden or otherwise, makes their reporting more credible? Hidden cameras are nothing more than a socially acceptable form of voyeurism. The videotape images that result from such efforts pass through too many hands on their way to the air to be viable instruments for honesty.

Mrs. J.M. Warner

Little screen vs. big screen

With regard to Bruce Feirstein's article ["Hey Hollywood: Stop Turning My TV Favorites into Movies!" May 28]: Now we know how some movie fans must feel! Just look at all the TV shows based on movies—*M*A*S*H*, Alice, Topper, Peyton Place, and too many others to mention.

Vincent J. Ward
Salt Lake City

You never consider how many TV series have been scoured for movie material until somebody makes a list. I can see this continuing until all our memories of old shows are soured by bad movies. The bright side is that someday these foul flicks may become great episodes of Mystery Science Theater 3000.

HITS & MISSES REVIEWS BY JEFF JARVIS

The returns of Larry Sanders, Phyllis George, Real World

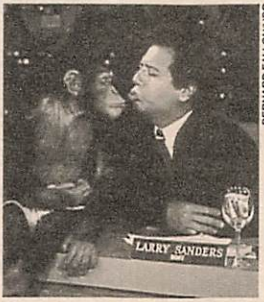
XXX's & OOO's (Tues., CBS)—Great idea for a show: a country-music drama about four beautiful ex-wives of country stars. And it comes from former NBC exec Brandon Tartikoff. But this pilot never clicks. And the music (like that on Cop Rock) never fits in. My score (0 to 10): 4

P.O.V.: Escape from China (Tues., PBS)—It's an amazing story, clumsily told. It's the story of Zhang Boli, a leader of the tragic 1989 Tiananmen Square demonstration, who hid out for two years (much of it on a swampy peasant farm) before escaping to America. A filmmaker went back to secretly record Boli's path and meet his family and allies. As a documentary, it's choppy, though timely. But it'd make a heck of a TV-movie. My score: 5

The Larry Sanders Show (Wed., HBO)—At the end of last season, Larry quit his talk show and escaped to Montana, where he grew stubble, watched his glory days on tape, and confessed to producer/pal Rip Torn:



BERNARD FALLON/HBO

The L.A. celeb smooch: Garry Shandling as Larry Sanders.

"I've never been so miserable." So Rip gets him back, but at a price. Larry must save face as only show-biz folk can: by confessing to a drug problem. I'm delighted that Garry Shandling is back as Larry—that instead of joining the talk-show wars, he's still making fun of them. I'm delighted that HBO is giving us something fresh in the stale months of summer. And I'm delighted that Sanders is as good as ever, still as dry as the perfect martini. My score: 10

A Phyllis George Special (Wed., TNN)—Phyllis George (see p. 38) returns with a series of celeb specials. She interviews charming car kings Richard and Kyle Petty; chats with a relaxed President Clinton about bowling, golf, and cars; and gushes over an embarrassed Naomi Judd ("People just love you, genuinely love you...and I'm not trying to flatter you"). George is just as good as she ever was on the CBS Morning News. My score: 3

The Real World (Thurs., MTV)—Not as obnoxious as last year, not as cool as the first year, the latest Real World moves to San Francisco with seven overconfident young roommates. My least favorite: Rachel, a selfish Young Republican who rudely shuns a roommate who's HIV-positive, and Puck, a bicycle messenger who's filthy, smelly, scabby, and never eats with utensils. Rachel thinks Puck is "really a spiritual guy...He's a genius." They deserve each other. MTV tends to have a short attention span with its series, so it's surprising to see this one back again. I guess we just can't get enough of voyeurism. My score: 6

Hot Summer Reruns

On Family Matters (Fri., ABC), Larry Johnson as Grandmama—his character on sneaker commercials—teams up with Urkel.

Note: Schedules vary in some areas.

Prime-time Storytime is just in time for bedtime

BY RAY STACKHOUSE

A parents' guide to noteworthy programming for youngsters. Programs especially suitable for preschoolers are marked•

To those great slogans used to promote reading—"reading is fundamental," "be all you can be, read"—add this from PBS's Storytime: "Read to children. The benefits last a lifetime." Monday's prime-time edition of the weekday series, which features celebrities reading popular children's books aloud, closes with that wise piece of advice from co-hosts Marabina Jaimes and Anne Betancourt. The episode is hosted by Charles Dutton, who tells the entertaining tale of "Muckey Moose." Also, Jamie Lee Curtis pages through "When I Was Little," her own book of reflections on growing up, and John Goodman and John Ritter read excerpts from other stories.

Here's the dirt on HBO's new ecologically themed cartoon series Stop the Smoggies! debuting Friday. The Smoggies are a trio of polluting messer-uppers who derive the utmost pleasure from despoiling the planet. Their exhausting efforts are continually being thwarted by the Suntots, cute little do-gooders who thrive on keeping the environment "shiny clear." The animation is muddy but the plot is easy to follow and the point comes across "shiny clear."

Sunday is Father's Day, and the Disney Channel celebrates with Goofy's Salute to Father. The animated hour actually is a collection of snippets from past cartoons that chart Goofy's life from his carefree, devil-may-care bachelor days to the joys and frustration of being in the 'hood—parenthood, that is. It's a relaxing time-passer that the whole family should enjoy.

And speaking of family, American Movie Classics offers a three-day "Family Film Fest" beginning Sunday. That day's highlight (airing at 3 P.M. and 9 P.M. [ET]) is 1944's wonderful "Going My Way," the heartwarming ★★★★ Best Picture about a feisty young priest (Bing Crosby) sent to help an aged pastor (Barry Fitzgerald) turn around his run-down parish. Other gems being shown include 1947's "The Bachelor and the Bobby Soxer" ★★★, with Shirley Temple and Cary Grant (Mon.), and 1952's "Hans Christian Andersen" ★★★, with Danny Kaye as the peripatetic storyteller (Tues.).

WORLD CUP SOCCER
11:30 AM 7 8

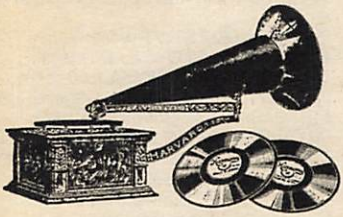
Stephen Dunn/Allsport

U.S. VS. SWITZERLAND

Yesterday, the monthlong, 52-match World Cup Finals kicked off in Chicago. Today the U.S. joins the action in Pontiac, Mich. (Live)

This match against the Swiss is considered crucial to U.S. hopes of advancing to the second round. The team's second match will be against Colombia, a team that demolished two-time world champion Argentina 5-0 last year. Besides Colombia, the oddsmakers also like Brazil, Germany and Italy, although no European team has ever won a World Cup hosted in the Americas.

ABC and ESPN will split coverage of the remaining 50 games, with Univision providing complete Spanish-language coverage. Announcers include Roger Twibell and Seamus Malin.



The phonograph was invented in 1878. Your idea might be just as big!

Is soccer just a sport for men afraid of football?

Discuss amongst yourselves. Only on Delphi. Only on the Internet.

Whether you think soccer's a sport for candycanes or the most fun you can have with cleats, you'll never have a problem finding others ready and willing to comment on whatever you have to say. It's the Internet — the hottest medium for the hottest topics. And Delphi's where you get aboard. The online service that "leads the way in Internet access."*

That's because Delphi makes assistance available at every turn. From help files, guides and books, to hundreds of online experts, including Walt Howe, Delphi's resident Internet guru and all-around cyber celebrity. You'll be up and surfing in no time. So tap in. It'll be, as they say, a real kick.

Oliver Sacks

Ch. 13's series on human development over the ages concludes with a stimulating round-table discussion.

Neurologist Oliver Sacks, biochemist Rupert Sheldrake, philosophers Daniel C. Dennett and Stephen Toulmin, physicist Freeman Dyson and paleontologist Stephen Jay Gould share their theories (all of which have been published in book form). Topics include evolution, consciousness, the laws of nature, God, morality, ethics, and the impact of humanity on Earth (both good and bad). The result: a multifaceted portrait of humanity, with insights into the future of our species.

It seems James Kaplan saw "Maverick" ["Mel's 'Maverick': Does It Live Up to Our TV Memories?" May 28] through little-screen eyes. He says it's "a satire of a satire." Well, it should be viewed that way—not compared to the TV show.

Carol Hubbard
Chandler, Ariz.

Bang! Zoom! to the Couch Critic?

Jeff Jarvis makes me laugh. He claims The Honeymooners was "an early example of spousal abuse" [Hits & Misses, May 28]. Everyone knows that Ralph's threats to send Alice "to the moon" were played for laughs. It's too bad his jaded sense of sophistication keeps him from seeing that.

Andrew MacEwen
Oakland Gardens, N.Y.

Hooray for Jeff Jarvis! Someone is finally brave enough to tell the truth about The Honeymooners. As a child, I was disturbed by Ralph Kramden's boorish behavior, and I feel the same way today.

Marie Wiener
Eyota, Minn.

Taking liberties with Libertarians

Thanks for putting the word "Libertarian" in quotes when referring to Howard Stern's campaign for governor of New York [Cheers 'n' Jeers, May 21]. Stern captured our nomination, but he did so by packing our convention with his fans. Stern has publicly acknowledged that he neither knows nor cares about our philosophy. As he continues to spout nonsense, seemingly under our aegis, I thought it important to note the unethical way in which he stole our nomination.

Becky Akers, Membership Director

TELECAST FROM OAKMONT, PA.

The site of 14 previous national championships (including six U.S. Opens), Oakmont Country Club has a storied place in the history of golf in America. In fact, it is the only country club designated a National Historic Landmark. Past Oakmont Opens include a 1953 win for Ben Hogan, the only player to break par for the event; the first PGA win for Jack Nicklaus, who outduelled local favorite Arnold Palmer in '62; and a '73 win for Johnny Miller, who broke Open records with a final-round 63 and a 279 total. The last Open here was won by Larry Nelson, who nailed a 65-foot putt to beat Tom Watson in 1983. (Live)

Monday GUIDELINES

☐ Tennis anyone? Play begins at Wimbledon today, and HBO has five hours of live daily coverage every day this week, plus evening recaps. Last year's winners: Pete Sampras and Steffi Graf. Jim Lampley hosts. —9 AM (HBO)

☐ Movie: Sam Hamm, who wrote the screenplay for 1989's "Batman," scripted "M.A.N.T.I.S.," a ★★ 1994 teleplay about a crime-fighting superhero. It gains appeal from impressive special effects and a fine cast of actors, including Carl Lumbly. —8 PM 5 (61)

☐ Movie: P.O.V. takes a sobering look at attempts to "cure" homosexuality in the alternately disturbing and enlightening "One Nation Under God," a ★★★ 1993 documentary. The focus is on Exodus International, an organization devoted to changing sexual identity using reorientation techniques. —8 PM 13

☐ No chains, jail or crate could hold him, but Biography does an admirable job of capturing the life and art of Harry Houdini (1874-1926). Most fascinating are the rarely seen clips of the magician performing celebrated escapes. —8 PM, 12 mid. [Early Tues.] (A&E)

☐ Joan Lunden plays a key role in this Murphy Brown repeat from last season when Murphy accidentally makes off with the Clintons' cat Socks after a trip to the White House. —9 PM 2 (3)

☐ Movie: "In the Line of Duty: Ambush in Waco." Timothy Daly (Wings) brings intensity to the role of David Koresh, the leader of the Branch Davidian cult. The ★★ 1993 TV-dramatization details events leading up to the cult's showdown with Federal agents. —9 PM 4

Tuesday GUIDELINES

☐ Yesterday, Today introduced its new, state-of-the-art studio in Rockefeller Center. Today at Night inaugurates the new digs with an hour that offers an inside view of TV production. Tom Hanks is slated to appear. —8 PM 4

☐ Movie: Former NBC programming chief Brandon Tartikoff co-produced "XXX's & OOO's," an uneven ★★ 1994 teleplay that mixes soap-like plots and music-video sequences in a story of love and ambition gone awry in Nashville. —9 PM 2

☐ "How satisfied are you with your current health insurance?" "How important is it to you to have a wide choice of doctors?" Those are two of the questions examined on "To Your Health," an informative, commercial-free NBC News Special hosted by Tom Brokaw. Although NBC controls the editorial content, the two-hour program was funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. —9 PM 4

☐ Frontline ends its season with a powerful Canadian-produced entry probing the motivations of a troubled child: 11-year-old Evan, whose rebellious acts include pouring paint into a teacher's cup of coffee—and worse. His parents seem to be at a loss over how to deal with him: his stepfather often launches into expletive-laden verbal assaults. —9 PM 13

☐ P.O.V.: Made under dangerous conditions, "Escape from China" traces the route taken by student leader Zhang Boli to avoid severe government reprisals after the Tiananmen Square demonstrations in the spring of 1989. —10:30 PM 13

Wednesday GUIDELINES

☐ The U.S. faces Colombia in a first-round World Cup Soccer match at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Cal. —7:25 PM ESN

☐ Wyatt Earp: Walk with a Legend generates hype for this summer's big-screen Western "Wyatt Earp" with clips and comments from star Kevin Costner (who plays Earp). —8:30 PM 2 3

☐ Hoop alert: Game 7 (if necessary) of the NBA Finals between the Knicks and Rockets, telecast from Houston. —9 PM 4 30

☐ Movie: In a month celebrating Gay Pride, 1985's "Before Stonewall" ★★★ resurfaces to mark the 25th anniversary of the beginning of the gay-liberation movement. The film recalls the often covert lifestyles of gays and lesbians prior to the 1969 revolt against raiding cops at a Greenwich Village gay bar called the Stonewall Inn. —9 PM 13 49

☐ Would Martin (Brian Benben) kidnap little Richard? Dream On. He is, however, the one mistakenly accused when he and the baby are abducted by a pair of loopy scriptwriters (the wonderful Scott Bakula and his wacky cohort Jami Gertz) in Part 1 of the uproarious two-part season opener. The episode is dotted with cameos. —10 PM HBO

☐ The Larry Sanders Show lopes into its third season with a sardonic episode that addresses the question posed in last year's cliffhanger: Will the errant Sanders stay in Montana, or will he return to the show? And if he does return, will he be able to rehire his staff? And how will the network explain his absence? See the Close-up on p. 163. —10:30 PM HBO

Peters, Shandling

The 1993 CableACE winner for best comedy series kicks off a third season of low-key laughs.

Last fall's cliffhanger raised some questions about the future of late-night talker Larry Sanders (Garry Shandling), who quit the rat race for the solitude of the Montana wilderness. Now Sanders is bored, miserable and pining for the old days. His producer, Artie (Rip Torn, the CableACE winner for best actor in a comedy series), visits with news of a network breach-of-contract lawsuit—which just may be the talk-show host's ticket back to Tinseltown. David Warner appears as the network honcho, and Bernadette Peters has a cameo. Hank: Jeffrey Tambor. Darlene: Linda Doucett. Paula: Janeane Garafolo.

☐ Italy vs. Norway in a World Cup Soccer first-round game at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J. —3:55 PM ESN; 4 PM 31

☐ Hi-di-ly-ho, neighbor! Flanders goes to hell on a repeat of The Simpsons. At least it seems like hell to the neighborly neighbor when Homer becomes his new best friend. Heaven help him. —8 PM 5 61

☐ In a Wings repeat, Brian's resolve to be true to Alex almost flies the coop when a bevy of models flies in for a photo shoot. —8:30 PM 4 30

☐ As a barber (and real cutup), Cheers' John Ratzenberger toasts small-town life in Locals, an unsold pilot for a sitcom set in a burg whose gardening-tool industry makes it "the rake capital of the world." —9:30 PM 5 61

☐ MTV assembles another disparate bunch for the third season of The Real World, this time including a staunch Republican, a self-described "bed-wetting liberal," an AIDS activist who's HIV-positive and an overachieving med student among the seven roommates who share a house in San Francisco, the new locale. There are the usual petty squabbles, but the subjects become more engaging when the talk turns to serious issues such as AIDS. —10 PM MTV

☐ Movie: Warren Oates, Gig Young and Kris Kristofferson star in 1974's "Bring Me the Head of Alfredo Garcia," Sam Peckinpah's bizarre and characteristically violent ★★★ action adventure about an American piano player who stands to gain a fortune if he can locate said head. TV GUIDE'S MOVIE RATINGS

For our readers' guidance, TV GUIDE rates movies excellent (★★★★), good (★★★), fair (★★) or poor (★). Our evaluations are based on a number of factors, including a consensus of leading critics, quality of cast and director, awards earned and box-office performance. TV GUIDE does not evaluate movies (signified by an absence of symbols) if a rating might be premature (example: an unscreened TV-movie) or pointless (example: a formula B-Western), or if too few facts are known (example: a minor foreign film). Movies may be edited for television; our ratings are based on the original, complete film.

TV GUIDE'S MOVIE RATINGS

For our readers' guidance, TV GUIDE rates movies excellent (★★★★), good (★★★), fair (★★) or poor (★). Our evaluations are based on a number of factors, including a consensus of leading critics, quality of cast and director, awards earned and box-office performance. TV GUIDE does not evaluate movies (signified by an absence of symbols) if it might be premature (example: an unscreened TV-movie) or pointless (example: a formula B-Western), or if the criteria can't be applied because too few facts are known (example: a minor foreign film). Movies may be edited for television; our ratings are based on the original, complete film.

Horoscope

By Patric Walker

ARIES (March 21-April 20): This week's Full Moon should come as quite a relief. You have certainly had your fill of arguing to get your point across to colleagues. Even better news: The Sun's entry into Cancer on the 21st means that loved ones will finally give you the support and affection you deserve.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21): Words are your power this week, Taurus, especially once the Sun moves into the communication angle of your solar chart on the 21st. Current aspects also favor travel and socializing, so now is the time to expand your horizons. You may visit places you haven't seen in quite a while.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21): Many Geminis possess an almost childlike belief that "everything will turn out all right in the end," and, of course, it usually does. But there are times when even you should plan ahead, to ensure that you're making the most of your limited resources—and this is one of them.

CANCER (June 22-July 23): The Sun's entry into your birth sign on the 21st signifies that the wheels about to be put in motion will have a prolonged and beneficial effect on your affairs. Therefore, if you have been planning something important—possibly involving a complete change of direction in your life—then now is the time to move forward.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23): Because Saturn, the planet of limitation, turns retrograde this week, you may have an overwhelming urge to splurge on things you don't really need and can't really afford. Investments are also a minefield at the moment. Remember: High-yield also means high-risk, so make sure you know exactly what you're getting into.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23): The Full Moon in Capricorn on the 23rd focuses attention on the creative side of your life. All Virgos are creative, but not all live up to their full potential. Now, however, you have what it takes to achieve what previously you could only dream about.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23): Family and career matters have been high on your agenda recently, and you're probably still reeling from one too many setbacks or blows to your ego. But Libra is a cardinal sign and not inclined to give up without a fight. Just make sure your anger is directed at the right enemy, otherwise you may find yourself back on the defensive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22): Every Scorpio has a secret dream—something you'd do if only you had the time and the money. But you don't need time or money when you've got motivation, so whatever scheme you have in mind, now is the time to begin with it. Current aspects guarantee some success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): A rather negative planetary setup indicates that you may be a little too eager to spread your wealth around—and there will certainly be no shortage of people to help you spend it. Your money will work better for you in some areas than in others this week, so shop around and make sure you get the best possible deal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): A magnificent Full Moon in your birth sign on the 23rd signifies that you are now in your element and determined to get the most out of life. Additionally, your ruler Saturn urges you to forget about what might have been. It's time to get out and start meeting people again.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Because Aquarians possess such a wide range of skills, as well as the ability to learn new ones quickly, you always get stuck with the lion's share of the workload. But now things have gone too far and you desperately need to redefine what you will, and will not, put up with.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): Current aspects will spark your imagination and make you wonder whether life in a different environment may have more to offer. Remember that planets in their course can only set the scene—you have to decide whether this is something real or a passing fancy.
